4.3.4 Facilities for e-content development are available in the institution such as

1. Content distribution system
2. Lecture Capturing System (LCS)

- Content distribution system (Whatsapp, Facebook Page, Instagram, YouTube, Lecture PPTs)

Content Creation: Teachers develop learning materials, including text documents, presentations, videos, and interactive modules.

Organization: Content is organized by subject, topic, or class to facilitate easy navigation and access for students.

Access Control: Students are provided with login credentials to access the system, ensuring privacy and security of the materials. Mostly all material is distributed in public domains.

Distribution Channels: Content can be distributed through various channels such as online platforms, mobile apps, or even offline methods like USB drives or printed materials.

Updates and Notifications: Students are notified of new content additions or updates to existing materials to keep them informed and engaged.

Correlation

Knowledge is one indivisible whole & it cannot be divided into tight compartments. Only for convenience of study there are different subjects but no subject can be studied in isolation & it has to be correlated with other subjects.

The main aim of education is to unify scattered knowledge into a coherent learning. To achieve it, the gap between subjects is closed by correlation.

8:47 pm

Importance of Correlation

- It helps in the transfer of learning from one subject to another.
- It helps in the development of social qualities such as co-operation, respect, honesty, etc.

8:47 pm

Types of Correlation

- 1. Intra-correlation: It establishes correlation with the branches of a particular subject. It is also called as internal or partial correlation. Eg. Teaching English Prose and Poetry together.
- 2. Inter-correlation: It is to establish correlation with the other subjects. It is also called as External Correlation. Eg. Science and Mathematics.
